Dear Michael A. Friedman, 7 '01 MAR 19 P3:54

Hello. I am writing to you today to implore you to stop requiring cruel and obsolete animal testing for pharmaceuticals. Instead allow these companies to substitute newer and better methods like in vitro tests. This will insure the safety of both humans and animals.

We are now in an age where we have discovered that animals have intelligence and the ability to feel emotions. Morally and ethically we can not continue to ignore these facts. There are better testing methods that not only saves lives but also will put a stop to the horrific suffering that we have already caused millions of species over the years. Please look deep into your heart and do the right thing. Stop the suffering!

Sincerely,

Melissa Lozoff
